

Turbo Charging Innovation in Your Organisation.

Facilitated by Anton Kriz this one-day face to face workshop will be a catalyst in setting the foundation for your future in innovation and how to lead and foster it in your organisation. An action learning approach will be used with you having the opportunity of playing with your own innovation project and working it through to a next-level solution. The one-day workshop will be broken up into the following five key steps:

Step 1 - Starts with an introduction to the action learning and development process and the essentials for understanding organisational innovation. A key activity will be to review your own business model and understand its ideal configuration to drive innovation.

Step 2 - Through a design thinking exercise you will then be in a position to take an innovation problem (project) and start framing and identifying an important innovation objective for your own organisation.

Step 3 – The session then moves to the development and execution of a solution. Coming up with ideas is not that hard but executing outcomes is where most fail. The real benefits around this activity will start post the workshop and in bringing others into the frame.

Step 4 - Importantly this workshop wants you to reflect on the innovation process and what you have learnt. But the real key to the day is illustrating how you can embed innovation as a habit back in the organisation rather than a one-off.

Step 5 - The one-day workshop closes with an analysis and discussion of how you can now take innovation to new levels and use it to turn your own business into a high performing organisation.

Anton will use the “Double Diamond Approach” which focuses on customers and filling jobs they want done and in doing so he will help you explore creative and innovative ways to solve challenging innovation problems.
